EFFORTS TO REDUCE RACIAL, ETHNIC AND ECONOMIC ISOLATION

Below is the description submitted by this school of how it provides educational opportunities for its students to interact with students and teachers from diverse racial, ethnic, and economic backgrounds.

The Farmington Public Schools remain committed to the letter and spirit of the law intended to reduce racial, ethnic, and economic isolation through local and regional school and district programs. Farmington's continuing commitment to the Choice program provides important education and social experiences for both Hartford and Farmington students. Farmington has participated in Project Concern, now Choice, for more than 45 years, and even with schools at and beyond enrollment capacity, the district continues to welcome approximately 98 Choice students. The Farmington Public Schools participate as an active partner in three interdistrict magnet school programs. Farmington plays a lead role in two interdistrict cooperative grants designed to increase achievement through the arts and four of our seven schools are actively participating in Sister School projects. Farmington's commitment to improving student achievement while simultaneously addressing education quality and diversity is well established and all indications point to further positive development in future years.

EQUITABLE ALLOCATION OF RESOURCES AMONG DISTRICT SCHOOLS

Below is the description submitted by this district of how it allocates resources to insure equity and address needs.

The Farmington Public Schools' budget is presented to the town after two months of school and program budget reviews and adjustments with principals, central office administrators, program directions and finally, a thorough study by the Board of Education of the budget recommended for consideration by the Superintendent. The budget is prepared to support the district mission, vision and five-year goals. This process ensures that the budget is allocated appropriately by school and by program and the resource allocation reflects the priorities and goals of the Board of Education.

Accommodations for a student's disability may be made to allow him or her to participate in testing. Students whose disabilities prevent them from taking the test even with accommodations are assessed by means of a list of skills aligned to the same content and grade level standards as the CMT and CAPT.

Federal law requires that students with disabilities be educated with their non-disabled peers as much as is appropriate. Placement in separate educational facilities tends to reduce the chances of students with disabilities interacting with non-disabled peers, and of receiving the same education.

SCHOOL DISTRICT IMPROVEMENT PLANS AND ACTIVITIES

The following narrative was submitted by this district.

The focus of professional development at all schools is on the implementation of our primary instructional improvement strategy. The newly developed Framework for Teaching and Learning defines Farmington's expectations for students and teachers working together in active learning communities. The Framework defines those principles of learning that advance content understanding and the development of learning skills. Teachers and administrators are examining practice through the lens of the Framework. Teams of teachers and whole school faculties have developed specific professional activities, including collaborative inquiry cycles and classroom peer observations. Content area specific initiatives have occurred and continue at all levels relative to improving teachers' skill based on identified student performance needs. For example, elementary teachers are administering universal screens in mathematics and then developing targeted interventions for groups of students. The school district engages in an annual strategic planning cycle of continuous improvement to support the district mission, vision and goals. Individual schools create their school improvement plans based on analysis of school-based data and student learning needs. This school improvement process relies upon a school team, which includes parents, to set the improvement plan for the school. The school development process involves annual planning and accountability measures that demonstrate progress toward the goals. School and district plans, as well as annual results and outcomes, are available on our website at www.fpsct.org.
